 - One can contest only under the industry category in which the current annual membership fees is paid.
 - The industry category under which the annual membership fees is paid for the current financial year should either match or exceed in comparison with turnover certificate issued by the auditor for the previous year.
Some examples:
 - (a) For the current financial year, renewal fee is paid under 'Medium' category. The turnover for last financial year is, say, ₹15 crore. Since last financial year turnover is above ₹10 core and below ₹25 crore, it falls under 'Medium' category and hence it is valid.
 - (b) For the current financial year, renewal fee is paid under 'Large' category. But turnover for last financial year is, say ₹15 crore. Though ₹15 crore turnover falls under 'Medium' category, since member industry has paid higher fees under 'Large' category, it is also valid.
